

An introduction to Support Theory

Henning Krause
University of Bielefeld

The notion of support is one of the fundamental concepts which is used throughout in algebra and geometry. This series of lectures provides an introduction to support theory, with special focus on applications in representation theory of finite dimensional algebras, using the setting of derived and triangulated categories.